

Summer Creation Science Field Trips in July and August 2017
Sponsored by Creation Association of Puget Sound

Families are invited to the field trips that will illustrate that the face of the earth can be dramatically changed in a few minutes or hours. It doesn't take millions of years! We will visit the two outstanding examples of these events in our own back yard.

Mt. St. Helens --- Saturday July 22 and Aug 26

Mt. St. Helens is the site of the largest landslide in recorded history. Paul Taylor will start off with a presentation at the Mt St Helens Creation Center. Paul Taylor and Ron Payne will lead a tour that includes the Weyerhaeuser Forest Learning Center, the Hummocks (an easy 2 and 3/4 mile hike), and Johnston Ridge. Participants will meet at the Creation Center near Toutle, WA and then caravan in their own cars up to the mountain. The tour will be limited to 50 participants.

Dry Falls/Scablands --- Saturday July 8 and Aug 12

For many years geologists thought that the channeled scablands and dry falls of Eastern Washington were carved out by gradual processes over many thousands of years. Now it has been established that they were caused by a massive flood event. Ron Payne will lead the field trips and show how the devastating Lake Missoula Flood quickly altered the landscape. Participants will caravan in their own cars (meet in Woodinville and travel to Dry Falls east of Wenatchee on Hwy 2). The trip is limited to 10 vehicles, so carpooling is encouraged.

A recommended non-refundable minimum donation of $10 per person is requested to cover the costs of each trip, There is an additional admission fee for the visitor center at Johnston Ridge ($8) and there is no fee at Dry Falls. Mike Oard's Missoula Flood book and DVD will be available for sale at the CAPS book table and at the events. Send in the separate required registration / waiver form to sign up. Trip details will be forwarded to those who register. Note that the field trips are all day events and that participants are responsible for their own transportation and food.

To sign up email Ron Payne at creationrj@comcast.net or call Ron at 425-820-2897.
